MediaSpa

A newly completed elegant city palais in the heart of Munich is the headquarters of Germany's first spa for men, opened over a year ago by Tünde Hartwieg and her husband. To be able to relax between business and appointments in order to be full of energy for the next round of meetings – that is the aim of the treatment programmes specially developed for men. It all begins with a cool-down in the spacious MediaSpa Lounge. Stylish, masculine interior, fine materials, flatscreen TV, daily newspapers and a modern water wall set the mood. The treatments are adapted to suit individual requirements – cosmetic treatments, massages, manicure and pedicure – and last between 45 and 90 minutes as preferred. The innovative products used come from the United States. They are especially skin-friendly and do not harm the environment. “Men quickly feel at ease, enjoy the attention and the feeling of being in expert hands”, says Tünde Hartwieg, who demands the highest service standards from her team. During the treatment other staff members ensure that the customer's shoes are polished until they shine. Towels, bathrobes and comfortable slippers are always available – as is the heated sauna, which provides an opportunity to rest and relax after your treatment. The professional skills, the ambience and the good feeling which comes from a well-groomed appearance have made the MediaSpa Munich a favourite address amongst VIPs.

MediaSpa Munich is Germany's first wellness and beauty address for men, combining care, relaxation and an attractive appearance.

One of the sources of inspiration for MediaSpa was the H²O Spa in the Emirates Towers in Dubai.
